FULL CONDUCTOR SCORE

FRENCH NATIONAL DEFILE'

Arr. David Shaffer

NOTE TO THE CONDUCTOR
"French National Defile'"

"Le Regiment de Sambre et Muse" was first a military poem by Paul Cezano (C. 1871-1877) of Paris. The poem reflected folklore of the time when France was invaded by European monarchists who planned to overthrow the revolution. In 1871, Jean Robert Planquette set Cezano's poem to a simple melody. In the 1890's French piano and song versions dutifully attribute the words and music to Cezano and Planquette, although an orchestra arrangement of around the same time gives credit to its orchestrator, A. Turlet, for the composition.

It has long since become public domain, and a group of recent arrangements by at least a half-dozen publishers testify to its continuing popularity. Much credit for its popularity, however, has been given to the Ohio State Marching Band which uses the tune as their traditional script Ohio music. The decision to use the title "French National Defile" on this arrangement rather than the original comes from a sincere dedication to the spirit of Ohio State University and the attempt to capture the feeling of the original Richard Heine arrangement used by the Ohio State Marching Band since 1964.
